Just In Time for Easter...Sister-of-the-Month Diane Mason Does Strut Fashions!

"Find out more about SIB businesses, and how to join the SIB business network at www.sistersinbusiness.net

Diane (Leslie) Mason, is a native Chattanooga. Out of a deep concern for early child development in African American children, she along with her family, opened Kandy Kastle Child Development Center, which became the first owned commercial Child Developed Center in the downtown area. Mrs. Mason retired in 2002. But she still had another burning desire, Fashions! In 2003, along with her daughter Brooke, who has a degree in fashion merchandising, they opened "Strut Fashions with an Attitude" located at Brainerd Market Center, Suite 116. The Boutique specializes in unique women's apparel and accessories and Special Occasion Wear with emphases on apparel for "Today's Women", sizes 16 and up. Her commitment to the community through Strut is to bring the latest in fashions to the women of Chattanooga, from major fashion cities.

Advertise and Shop @ SIBay: Online "Spring Showcase"

If you enjoy selling or buying at consignment boutiques, upscale resale shops, classified ads, garage sales, or flea markets, you're going to love

SIBAY. SIBay is Sisters-In-Business' online and offline shopping solution that, yes is like "Ebay", but offers Chattanoogaans the benefits of doing business online and in their own backyard. What does that mean? That means money is spent in Chattanooga, which helps our business economy and our communities. What is really a plus is that SIBay offers the opportunity to build invaluable relationships between businesses and customers. Having an online shopping portal in the neighborhood means you get to do "free" local calling about an item of interest, and even go by to see the merchandise before purchasing. It's exciting to see the E*Commerce take life like this in Chattanooga!

To see the items pictured in this ad, and other Spring Showcase" specials; with pricing; or to inquire about advertising, on SIBay, please visit us at Sistersinbusiness.net, or contact SIB Customer Service at 423.421.5446.
